What you will be doing:

- Partner with the leadership team and functional areas to understand and set the marketing strategy with specific focus of building and running a predictable and scalable revenue engine
- Develop and manage Marketing and Demand Generation plans and operations across channels including campaigns, execution, and reporting & analysis
- Coordinate with Product and Sales teams to prioritize and develop integrated campaigns, determine best channels for each product/campaign/piece of content
- Develop inbound/outbound lead generation strategy for digital and offline channels including SEM/PPC, Social, Display/Re-targeting, Events, Webinars, Websites/SEO, Review Sites, Email, Associations, and Offline Channels
- Enhance and manage the marketing and lead management process to improve pipeline growth and conversion, including management of market research team to identify target accounts and prospects
- Create and manage web properties in coordination with the design and development teams to optimize our owned web properties for inbound marketing lead generation and conversion
- Own the relationship with Sales and Business Development teams to forge strong communication and service level agreements (SLA)
- Build and manage the Marketing Team around best in class systems (CRM, list building, campaign tracking, content management, etc.) and processes
- Work with Customer Success and Product Development teams to collect customer insights to drive current and future marketing initiatives
- Compile, interpret, and report key metrics tied to company growth, sales execution, and marketing activities

- Drive company vision, messaging and brand consistency in everything you do; help instill a growth-minded culture
- Manage overall Marketing Operations including the team, marketing budget, demand gen technology, reporting, and dashboards to demonstrate revenue impact and ROI
- Other duties as assigned.

What you will bring:

- Minimum of 5+ years of related marketing and demand generation management experience in B2B SaaS environments with a focus on digital marketing in a growth environment
- Demonstrated experience developing strategies and executing in multiple B2B marketing channels, including digital, content, events, partnership and social media
- Expertise in building, managing, and leading a first-class business must have a solid track record of delivering demand generation targets in a fast-paced environment
- Experience in launching new products to market and playing a key role in establishing product market fit
- Strong with Account Based Marketing (ABM) techniques, digital and non-digital strategies such as outbound calling, email, social, webinars, events, etc.
- Proven ability to use analytics to identify and prioritize high performing marketing channels
- Experience balancing between SEO and SEM to drive demonstrable ROI (revenue, online presence, etc.)
- Subject matter expertise and demonstrated competency in marketing automation solutions including CRM's (e.g.: HubSpot/ Salesforce), list building (e.g.: ZoomInfo/ Discover.org), campaign automation, etc.
- Proven experience executing clearly defined long-term and short-term strategic marketing programs
- Exceptional team leadership & communication skills for working closely with sales, support, customers, media / external partners, and executive management
- An undergraduate business degree or equivalent
- You must have existing government authorization to live & work in Canada. Applicants currently not living in Canada will not be considered.
